MacArthur Expects To Be Shelved As Chief

GENERAL URGES DIRECT BLOWS AGAINST JAPAN

Policy Of Hopping From Island To Island Is Condemned

WILL CARRY OUT ORDERS

Sharply Worded Statement Replies To Report Of Curtailed Command

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 22—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the Southwest Pacific, admitted frankly today that he expects to be shelved as the dominant leader in the Allied campaign against Japan.

The four-star general released from his headquarters in the New Guinea battle area a sharply worded statement in answer to "press reports from the United States and England implying" his part in the war was to be progressively curtailed and his command "reduced to a secondary and subsidiary role."

At the same time he condemned the policy of hopping from island to island and advocated strong blows aimed directly at Japan to end the Pacific war as soon as possible at a minimum of sacrifice.

If he is directed to carry out the plans of others and the campaign he has mapped is discarded, he will carry out his duty as a soldier, Gen. MacArthur said.

Seeks Only Victory

"It makes little difference whether I or others wield the weapon, just so the cause for which our beloved country fights is victorious," the statement declared.

"However subordinate may be my role I hope to play it manfully," he continued.

"My strategic conception for the Pacific theatre which I outlined after the Papuan campaign and have since consistently advocated contemplates massive strokes against only main strategic objectives, utilizing surprise and air-ground striking power supported and assisted by the fleet.

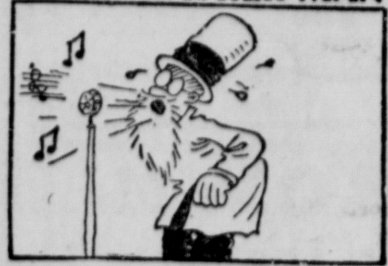

"Key points must of course be taken, but a wise choice of such will obviate the need for storming the mass of islands now in enemy possession. Island hopping with extravagant losses and slow progress—some press reports indicating victory might be postponed as late as 1945—is not my idea of how to end the war as soon and as cheaply as possible."

Has No Ambitions

Then he said that he had no personal military ambitions whatsoever and would be perfectly content in such a role as may be prescribed for him.

While Gen. MacArthur made no mention of recent tactical decisions, including the appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten as supreme commander for Southeast Asia, observers felt that this must (Continued on Page Two)

Bond Drive Far Short Of Success

Receipts To Date Total Only Third Of Quota Set For County

Pickaway county's Third War Loan campaign is far short of its $1,331,000 goal, Clark Will, general chairman, revealed Wednesday when he reported receipts to date totaling $409,163.50. The amount subscribed by Pickaway countians is less than one-third of the total amount assigned as the county's goal.

The drive chairman, who issued another appeal to solicitors to perform their assigned tasks and to townspeople and county folk to join in the attack on the Axis, declared that only 761 persons have made purchases. The 761 total was listed at the close of business Tuesday.

"When you take into consideration that Pickaway county's population is approximately 28,000," Mr. Will declared, "it is a very poor showing when only 761 show enough interest in the conduct of the war to buy Bonds."

While Pickaway county's subscriptions to date are far below expectations, another county has gone over the top, Miami county reporting its sales at $5,054,634, $500,634 more than the quota. Warren county passed its quota Tuesday.

Assistance from another source was reported Wednesday when the Norfolk & Western railroad responded to an appeal from the Pickaway county War Finance Committee by subscribing $40,000 to the campaign. A letter written by W. J. Jenks, president of the railroad, informed Mr. Will that the railroad would subscribe $40,000 in two percent 1951-53 treasury bonds.

A. V. Osborn, local agent of the Norfolk & Western, assisted the War Finance Committee in obtaining the subscription.

Need for additional effort in the general Pickaway county campaign, and especially in rural areas where the drive has bogged down dangerously, was stressed Wednesday by the general chairman. "The war belongs to everyone," he reminded the city and county populace, "and so should this War Bond drive. It cannot be successful unless every one participates by buying War Bonds to the extent of his ability."

BYRD DEMANDS 300,000 SLASH OF FED WORKERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D) Va., said today he will press his fight to compel federal agencies in Washington and elsewhere to follow through with a 300,000 slash in excess civil personnel in view of the pending draft of fathers.

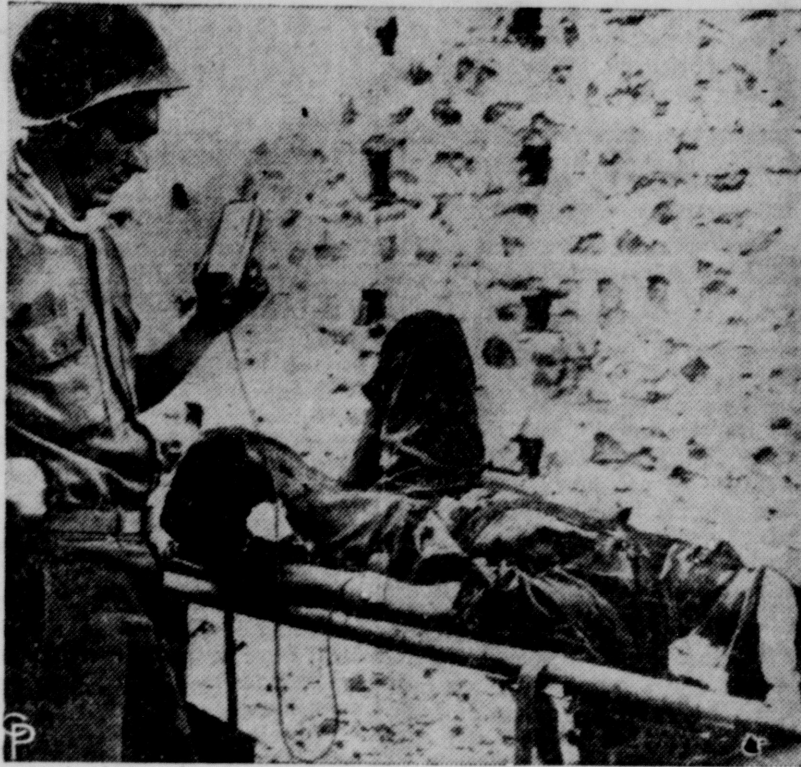

"I have reason to believe that the bureaus, agencies and commissions have failed to reduce their payrolls as called for in a report by the joint house and senate committee on non-essential expenditures," Byrd said.

"Since congress reconvened the committee hasn't had a chance to get together, but I am calling a meeting for sometime next week. We will go into the matter again at that time and decide what to do in view of the father draft."

SANDUSKY AND RHODES LEAD IN MAYOR CONTEST

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22 — James A. Rhodes, Republican city auditor, and Jacob E. Sandusky, Democrat, were chosen by Columbus voters in yesterday's primaries to be their candidates for mayor. Complete unofficial returns from the city's 363 precincts today gave Rhodes 16,643; Sandusky 11,205; Floyd Green (R) incumbent, 8,354; Hayden Edwards (R) 8,256; Arthur P. Lamneck (D) 6,782 and Newton A. Thatcher (D) 1,885. A total of 53,942 votes was cast.

German Air Strength Steadily Decreasing, Allied Spokesman Says

NORTHWEST AFRICA AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 21 —(Delayed)—An Allied air force spokesman declared today that German air strength is steadily decreasing, with the quality of Nazi pilots and their tactical handling of their planes deteriorating.

Meanwhile the effectiveness of our air attacks is on the upgrade as our pilots become more experienced, he said.

Th German air effort against our landings at Salerno reached a very low point while our air power had risen to such an extent that September 14 was the biggest day in the history of the Northwest Africa Air Force, he added. On that day Allied warplanes poured a concentration of 1,200 tons of bombs into a 16-mile enemy front in a total of 2,600 sorties by planes of the tactical and strategic air forces.

But, the spokesman declared, "even that tremendous tonnage fails to depict the intensity of the air forces' efforts on September 14, "a day which will stand out in the history of aerial bombing." Every available plane was massed for direct support of our ground troops and they succeeded in smashing German counter-attacks at a critical moment.

Bombing Poor

The spokesman explained that his reference to deteriorating German air power applied only to Nazi fighter planes since the Germans' bombing always was poor, bearing as much relation to proper use of air power as a chariot to a tank.

He said the Germans made their major effort in the air over Italy before the Allied invasion, when the Nazis concentrated fighters along the Naples-Foggia line, but our air strength overwhelmed them.

With increased experience, the spokesman declared, the efficiency of our air forces has improved greatly.

INFANTS COO AS DIAPER FAMINE DRAWS TO END

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—The War Production Board received a "coo" of gratitude from the nation's war babies today.

A WPB spokesman said the diaper shortage is about over, with production nearing its greatest peak in history. Only the problem of maldistribution remains and diaper manufacturers will meet with WPB officials Friday to take steps to spread the three-cornered pants 'round.

"The production of diapers is now close to our estimate of requirements, which are the highest in history," an official said. "The schedule was moved away up because of the increasing birth rate caused by the war and I'd say roughly that we will have about 50 percent more diapers this year than in 1939."

NEW POST SEEN AS DEMOTION FOR MARSHALL

Friends Resigned To Role Of Field Commander Serving War Board

Chief Of Staff Has No Desire To Shift—Others Support Attitude

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Friends of Gen. George C. Marshall are resigned today to his ouster as chief of staff of the United States Army and transfer to a glorified field command, which may carry the title of commander in chief of all American and British forces throughout the world.

A White House announcement of the change in Marshall's status is expected Friday.

Marshall's friends regard the impending transfer as a "demotion" rather than a "promotion." They say that Marshall today is the leading figure in global warfare strategy due to his dominating position on the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff, who plot the war. In the new post, they fear Marshall will become a super-duper field commander, carrying out the global strategy ordered by a war board on which he will no longer have a voice.

There is a remote possibility that congressional protests may result in Marshall remaining in his present post while assuming the new duties of world field commander. In such an event, it would be a promotion.

No Confirmation

Few of Marshall's friends expect him to be thus honored. They point out that the President announced Marshall's reappointment as chief of staff August 31 when his four-year term ended, but that the nomination has never been sent to the senate for confirmation. The senate reconvened a week ago.

There are rumors in congressional circles that Marshall is being given the new post "only with his consent." These rumors merely mean that Marshall is a "good soldier" and will carry out any orders given him by his commander in chief.

It can be stated on the highest authority that Marshall does not desire the new post. And it can be stated on the same authority that the other members of the United States joint chiefs of staff—Admiral William D. Leahy, Admiral Ernest J. King and Gen. H. H. Arnold—have expressed personal opposition to any change in Marshall's present status.

INSPECTORS FOR WPB HELD FOR ACCEPTING BRIBE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — Two War Production Board inspectors were held in $7,500 bail today charged with accepting a $1,000 bribe.

The FBI apprehended Francis A. Capelli, 40, a former Westchester county patrolman, and Richard C. Atherton, 32, after they accepted a parcel containing the money in the offices of Meadowpark Clothes, Inc.

The men were said by the FBI to have told the clothing company that patch pockets were in violation of WPB orders and demanded the bribe. The company agreed, but immediately notified federal agents.

The FBI said Atherton confessed he had received $1,200 in other shakedowns and waived hearing when the two men were arraigned. Capelli will be heard October 4.

Hess Flight Made On Hitler's Order; Ouster Of Churchill Planned

LONDON, Sept. 22—The British government lifted one corner of the Rudolph Hess mystery today with announcement he came to Britain with orders from Adolf Hitler to toss Prime Minister Winston Churchill out of office.

An official statement made public for the first time disclosed that Hess flew to Scotland from Augsburg with this arrogant proposition from the leader of the German reich:

"Hitler wants a permanent understanding with Britain but will negotiate with no government headed by Winston Churchill."

Publication of this disclosure finally explained in full measure why the Hess mission wound up as the most ignominious failure in history, with Hitler's deputy packed off to state imprisonment and now, according to reliable reports, a mental case with delusions of grandeur and a persecution complex.

The formula for peace brought by Hess when he parachuted out of his specially-made Messerschmitt on the estate of a Scottish Duke to be taken into custody by an astounded farmer armed only with a pitchfork was nothing if not thorough.

It was a six-point plan carefully framed at Berchtesgaden in the double-dealing months when Hitler was planning his invasion of Russia and featured the following:

1—Hitler was desirous of a permanent understanding with Great Britain.

2—If achieved, the British Empire would be "permitted" to remain intact.

3—If the Hess offer were rejected, Hitler would consider it his "duty" to destroy Britain utterly and when the war was over to keep the nation in a state of permanent subjection.

Underlining all of this was the distinct understanding that Churchill would be relegated once again to the back benches and the prime ministry placed in the hands of someone suitable to the Wilhelmstrasse. The identity of candidates presumably acceptable to the little man with the moustache was not included in the British government's expose.

From the moment Hess plummeted out of the skies with his grandiose ideas a number of things were made clear to him. Paramount was that Great Britain would never entertain the question of negotiations with the Hitler government on any subject whatever.

Equal stress, it may be assumed, was placed on the quiet but firm determination of Winston Churchill to remain in 10 Downing street whether the Fuehrer liked it or not.

OHIO FUGITIVE THUMBING BACK TO PENITENTIARY

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 22—Ralph Schimpf, 27, of Newark, O., an escapee from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, was "on his way back" today, on his own accord.

Schimpf shook hands with Omaha Detective Captain Harry Green yesterday, left the Omaha city jail and trudged towards the Missouri river bridge.

"Oh, I'll hitch-hike," he said when Captain Green asked him how he'd get back to Columbus. Schimpf decided to "do his bit" toward getting back after Omaha detectives received the following telegram:

"Unable to send for Ralph Schimpf, due to transportation conditions. Sorry. Advise him to return own accord, save half lost time."

Penitentiary records show Schimpf escaped after serving eight months of a one-to-20 year sentence for car theft.

Gordon, 23, of Rock Island, Ill., was struck below the left chest by a 20 mm anti-aircraft shell which pierced his intestines and lodged in his left hip. By chance, the shell did not explode. Two Navy doctors, working behind steel plate, operated on Gordon, fearful that the shell might explode any minute. They removed it and today Gordon is back in the U. S., undergoing treatment.

BEN JOHNSON REPORTED SAFE

War Department Reports Missing Local Flyer Held By Germans

Good news came to Harry Johnson, West Mill street, Wednesday from the War department when it informed him that his son, Technical Sergeant Benjamin (Ben) Johnson, 32, is a prisoner of war in Germany.

Mr. Johnson had not received any news from the War office since August 30 when he was informed that the Flying Fortress on which his son was serving had failed to return from a flight over enemy territory. The fortress on which Johnson was a gunner and radio operator was missing after a mission August 16 deep into German territory.

The telegram received in mid-morning by Mr. Johnson was signed by James A. Ullo, adjutant general. It said that word had come to the War department through the International Red Cross that Technical Sergeant Johnson was safe, though a prisoner.

The former employee of the Container Corporation of America is the fourteenth local youth believed held in Germany. Thirteen infantrymen were taken captive in Tunisia last February, and all are believed to be in Germany.

Word from the War department concerning his son elated Mr. Johnson, who had never lost faith that his son would be found unharmed.

Sergeant Johnson has been overseas since May 5 when he became a member of the Eighth Air Force. Only a week or two prior to the date that his fortress failed to return he had been awarded the Army Air Medal which is given to men who have completed five (Continued on Page Two)

RAGING FLAMES SIGNAL WANTON NAZI REVENGE

Holocaust Of Destruction Promised By Hitler May Be Under Way

ALLIES SCORE ADVANCE

Airborne Jungle Troops Take Jap Base—Russian Advance Continues

By International News Service

In an act of wanton destruction without parallel since the days of Genghis Khan, the Germans put the torch to Naples today.

While British and American forces pounded northward, seizing four important towns on the main roads to Naples, Allied reconnaissance reported the beautiful ancient city overlooking the Tyrrhenian sea engulfed in smoke and flames.

It appeared that Naples had been chosen as the first major example of the fate decreed on Europe by Adolf Hitler. He promised years ago that if he went down in defeat, he would drag the continent with him in a holocaust of destruction.

The fall of smoke covering Naples was so thick that Allied reconnaissance fliers could not distinguish one fire from another.

No Allied Shelling

No Allied bombing planes have attacked Naples recently, and not a single shell has been hurled into the city by Allied land or naval artillery well within range.

Thus it is obvious that in anticipation of abandoning the city or fighting for its possession, the Nazis have set Naples on fire. If they are going to evacuate the city the act is one of sheer wantonness or revenge. If they are going to fight for it, the fires may represent demolitions carried out to clear the way for street fortifications.

In any case, seasoned observers at Allied headquarters pointed out that extent of the smoke pall could mean nothing but the work of pyromaniacs. The fires were incendiary to begin with and man-fed, with no apparent effort being made to control them.

Battle Indicated

German army activity on the approaches to the city indicates an intention to carry the battle into Naples' gutted streets and houses, foreshadowing the possibility of another Stalingrad in the cobbled thoroughfares of a metropolis that was already old when Christianity was born.

Stiffened enemy resistance was encountered in the continued Allied drive to the north.

LACK OF LABOR REAL THREAT TO RUBBER SUPPLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — The U. S. faces a serious rubber shortage, John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., warned today.

No longer plagued by raw material shortages, Collyer said that today lack of manpower and production facilities have produced a new crisis.

A serious breakdown in the nation's rubber-borne transportation is threatened unless corrective measures are taken, the rubber expert declared.

Collyer estimated that the rubber industry must produce 30 million passenger tires next year and added:

"Increasing quantities of rubber from government-owned synthetic plants cannot be converted into tires urgently needed for trucks, buses and automobiles if adequate manpower and additional production capacities are not made available without delay."

Bond Drive
Far Short
Of Success

Receipts To Date Total
Only Third Of Quota
Set For County

Pickaway county's Third War Loan campaign is far short of its $1,331,000 goal, Clark Will, general chairman, revealed Wednesday when he reported receipts to date totaling $409,163.50. The amount subscribed by Pickaway countians is less than one-third of the total amount assigned as the county's goal.

The drive chairman, who issued another appeal to solicitors to perform their assigned tasks and to townspeople and county folk
to join in the attack on the Axis, declared that only 761 persons have made purchases. The 761 total was listed at the close of business Tuesday.

"When you take into consideration that Pickaway county's population is approximately 28,000," Mr. Will declared, "it is a very poor showing when only 761 show enough interest in the conduct of the war to buy Bonds."

While Pickaway county's subscriptions to date are far below expectations, another county has gone over the top, Miami county reporting its sales at $5,054,634, $500,634 more than the quota.
Warren county passed its quota Tuesday.

Assistance from another source was reported Wednesday when the Norfolk & Western railroad responded to an appeal from the Pickaway county War Finance Committee by subscribing $40,- 000 to the campaign. A letter written by W. J. Jenks, president of the railroad, informed Mr. Will that the railroad would subscribe $40,000 in two percent 1951-53
treasury bonds.

A. V. Osborn, local agent of the Norfolk & Western, assisted the War Finance Committee in obtaining the subscription.

Friends Resigned To Role

Chief Of Staff Has No

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—
Friends of Gen. George C. Marshall are resigned today to his ouster as chief of staff of the United States Army and transfer to a glorified field command,
which may carry the title of commander in chief of all American and British forces throughout the world.

A White House announcement of the change in Marshall's status is expected Friday.

Marshall's friends regard the impending transfer as a "demonstration" rather than a "promotion."
They say that Marshall today is the leading figure in global warfare strategy due to his dominating position on the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff, who plot the war. In the new post, they fear Marshall will become a super-duper field commander,
carrying out the global strategy ordered by a war board on which he will no longer have a voice.

There is a remote possibility that congressional protests may result in Marshall remaining in his present post while assuming the new duties of world field commander. In such an event, it would be a promotion.

Few of Marshall's friends expect him to be thus honored. They point out that the President announced Marshall's reappointment

his four-year term ended, but that the nomination has never firmation. The senate reconvened

There are rumors in congressional circles that Marshall is being given the new post "only merely mean that Marshall is a "good soldier" and will carry out

mander in chief.

Hess Flight Made On Hitler's Order; Ouster
Of Churchill Planned

LONDON, Sept. 22—The British government lifted one corner of the Rudolf Hess mystery today with announcement he came to Britain with orders from Adolf Hitler to toss Prime Minister Winston Churchill out of office.

An official statement made public for the first time disclosed that Hess flew to Scotland from Augsburg with this arrogant proposition from the leader of the German reich:

"Hitler wants a permanent understanding with Britain but will negotiate with no government headed by Winston Churchill."

Publication of this disclosure finally explained in full measure
why the Hess mission wound up as the most ignominious failure in history, with Hitler's deputy packed off to state imprisonment
and now, according to reliable reports, a mental case with delusions of grandeur and a persecution complex.

The formula for peace brought by Hess when he parachuted out of his specially-made Messerschmitt on the estate of a Scottish Duke to be taken into custody by an astounded farmer armed only with a pitchfork was nothing if not thorough.

It was a six-point plan carefully framed at Berchtesgaden in the double-dealing months when Hitler was planning his invasion of Russia and featured the following:

1—Hitler was desirous of a permanent understanding with Great Britain.

2—If achieved, the British Empire would be "permitted" to remain intact.

3—If the Hess offer were rejected, Hitler would consider it his "duty" to destroy Britain utterly and when the war was over to keep the nation in a state of permanent subjection.

Underlining all of this was the distinct understanding that Churchill would be relegated once again to the back benches and the prime ministry placed in the hands of someone suitable to the Wil-helmstrasse. The identity of candidates presumably acceptable to the little man with the moustache was not included in the British government's expose.

From the moment Hess plungeted out of the skies with his grandiose ideas a number of things were made clear to him.
Parliament was that Great Britain would never entertain the question of negotiations with the Hitler government on any subject whatever.

Equal stress, it may be assumed,
was placed on the quiet but firm determination of Winston Churchill
to remain in 10 Downing street whether the Fuehrer liked it or not.

OHIO FUGITIVE
THUMBING BACK TO PENITENTIARY

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 22—Ralph Schimpf, 27, of Newark, O., an escapee from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, was "on his way back" today, on his own accord.

Schimpf shook hands with Omaha Detective Captain Harry Green yesterday, left the Omaha city jail and trudged towards the Missouri river bridge.

"Oh, I'll hitch-hike," he said when Captain Green asked him
how he'd get back to Columbus.

Schimpf decided to "do his bit"
toward getting back after Omaha detectives received the following telegram:

"Unable to send for Ralph Schimpf, due to transportation conditions. Sorry. Advise him to return own accord, save half lost
time."

Penitentiary records show Schimpf escaped after serving eight months of a one-to-20 year sentence for car theft.

Human Bomb!

STANDING at his post aboard
an American warship in the Pacific, Allen L. Gordon, 23, of Rock Island, Ill., was struck below the left chest by a 20 mm anti-aircraft shell which pierced his intestines and lodged in his left hip. By chance, the shell did not explode. Two Navy doctors, working behind steel plate, operated on Gordon, fearful that the shell might explode any minute. They removed it and today Gordon is back in the U. S., undergoing treatment.

No Allied Shelling

No Allied bombing planes have attacked Naples recently, and not a single shell has been hurled into the city by Allied land or naval artillery well within range.

Thus it is obvious that in anticipation of abandoning the city or fighting for its possession, the Nazis have set Naples on fire. If they are going to evacuate the city, the act is one of sheer wantonness or revenge. If they are going to fight for it, the fires may represent demolitions carried out to clear the way for street fortifications.

In any case, seasoned observers
at Allied headquarters pointed out that extent of the smoke pall could mean nothing but the work of pyromaniacs. The fires were incidental to begin with and man-fed,
with no apparent effort being made to control them.

BATTLE INDICATED

German army activity on the approaches to the city indicates an intention to carry the battle into Naples' gutted streets and houses, foreshadowing the possibility of another Stalingrad in the cobbled thoroughfares of a metropolis that was already old when christianity was born.

Stiffened enemy resistance was encountered in the continued Allied drive to the north.

LACK OF LABOR
REAL THREAT TO RUBBER SUPPLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—The U. S. faces a serious rubber shortage, John L. Collier, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., warned today.

No longer plagued by raw material shortages, Collier said that today lack of manpower and production facilities have produced a new crisis.

A serious breakdown in the nation's rubber-born transportation is threatened unless corrective measures are taken, the rubber expert declared.

Collier estimated that the rubber industry must produce 30 million passenger tires next year and added:

"Increasing quantities of rubber
from government-owned synthetic plants cannot be converted into tires urgently needed for trucks, buses and automobiles if adequate manpower and additional production capacities are not made available without delay."

In an act of wanton de-

While British and Ameri-

towns on the main roads to ancient city overlooking the Tyrrhenian sea engulfed in smoke and flames.

It appeared that Naples

NEW POST SEEN AS DEMOTION FOR MARSHALL

field. They give him a huge share of the credit for planning the military maneuvers that have resulted in recent successes in the Mediterranean and South Pacific theatres of action.

This explains why the Army-Navy Journal protested so violently last Saturday against Marshall being "kicked upstairs." The Journal charged that unnamed "powerful interests" were trying to strip him of his power over war strategy.

There is no doubt whatever that Marshall will lose power if sent to the field unless he also retains his present authority. This is why his friends regard the impending appointment as a "demotion."

Holds Important Job

In his present post, Marshall has tremendous influence on the determination of United Nations strategy. Since he controls the disposition of American troops and American war supplies, subject only to President Roosevelt's veto, he is the dominant voice now in the choice of war fronts. His power is so great that he need only say that he is not ready for an invasion of Europe across the English channel and there is no invasion.

In his present post, Marshall also has a voice in choosing Allied commanders all over the world, save on the Russian front. He personally chose Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to head the North African campaign, with its attendant invasion of Sicily and the Italian mainland.

As a glorified commander in chief of all Anglo-American fronts, Marshall would lose all that power. In a field post, whatever his title, he would merely carry out the orders sent him by the combined chiefs of staff. He might make recommendations, but the decisions would be made by the combined chiefs unless that staff is to be abolished.

The new appointment will be sugar coated. It will place Marshall over Eisenhower, in North Africa, MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific, Halsey in the South Pacific, Nimitz in the central Pacific, Mountbatten in Southwest Asia, the British generals in the Middle East, and whoever finally runs the show out of the British Isles. But as one of his friends says:

"Today Marshall and King actually boss them all by their control of the United States army and navy and American war supplies. Tomorrow Marshall will be called boss, but the bosses will be back in Washington."

Compared to Foch

Some effort may be made to compare the new Marshall post with that held by Marshall Ferdinand Foch in the First World War. Foch was generalissimo of the French, British, American and Belgian armies on the western front. He dominated that front and those armies. He alone ordered attacks or retreats or any other military maneuvers. In Marshall's case, he will get the title, but the orders will come from the combined chiefs of staff after review by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

The public may well wonder why Marshall is being displaced after so great a success as wartime army chief of the United States. Reporters, who have intimate contacts in highest military circles, have known of the move to oust Marshall since last May. They have been told time and again that Marshall was doomed to lose his post because he had offended Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter. Many reasons are given for the "break," most of them revolving around Marshall's alleged refusal to consult the justice on matters of military policy.

Justice Frankfurter exerts a tremendous power in the Roosevelt administration. Every single important civilian post in the war department is now occupied by a friend of the justice. This may explain his interest in Marshall in military matters.

The "British" are also accused of finding fault with Marshall and true but it is a dated fault-finding, which ended some months ago with the biggest British authorities yielding to Marshall's wishes and vision.

The favorite for successor to Marshall as army chief of staff is Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, now chief of the army services of supply. At least he is the choice of Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, now largely responsible for administering the war department.

PENNEY GAINS RECOGNITION IN BOND CAMPAIGN

J. C. Penney Co. has received congratulations from Secretary of the Treasury Henry J. Morgenthau for a splendid job of War Bonds selling during a campaign conducted in July. All of the company's 1,610 stores participated in the Bond drive, the Circleville store collecting $5,700 in actual cash for Bonds.

Harold Limbach, Circleville store manager, said that in July year ago the company had sold eight and one-half millions in Bonds and had set a quota of ten millions this year. The complete report for July announces the total of $42,335,816.85 or four times the quota set for the campaign, and nearly five times the figure for the preceding year. During July, Penney stores sold 25 percent more in Bonds and Stamps than in merchandise. In terms of war equipment, this means 500 fighter planes, 200 light tanks, five destroyers and five submarines.

Congratulations to the Penney Co. were received at the store and its employees were engaged in selling Bonds and Stamps for the Third War Loan Drive.

of Salerno and midway between Salerno and Taranto, was captured by units of the British Eighth Army. The city has been repeatedly hammered by Allied warplanes. The American Fifth Army took San Cipriano Picentino, Montecorvino Rovella and Campagna. San Cipriano Picentino is seven miles northeast of Salerno, Montecorvino Rovella lies about five miles northwest of American-held Eboli and Campagna is approximately five miles northeast of Eboli.

Allies Advance

The new Allied advances on the ground were accompanied by continued heavy aerial pounding of roadways and German transport throughout the battle area. Meanwhile American Liberator bombers blasted several German ships in the Nazi-held port of Leghorn, 180 miles northwest of Rome, and hammered the harbor of Bastia on the northeastern coast of Corsica.

The attack on Bastia supported French regulars and Corsica patriots battling in Corsica against German forces who had fled that island from Sardinia. A communiqué from French Gen. Henri Honore Giraud's headquarters said the Nazis had been herded into the eastern part of the island. French troops were reported battling the Germans at Bonifacio and Porto Vecchio, last main southern ports remaining in German hands.

While the Liberators pounded the German escape port at Bastia, French soldiers and partisans pressed on the port from the landward side. Early liberation of Corsica appeared in prospect.

Yugoslav Victory?

A dispatch from Cairo to London reported, without confirmation, that a Yugoslav patriot army had invaded Italian territory to seize and occupy the town of Gorizia in northeastern Italy, less than 20 miles from the Yugoslav border.

In Great Britain, large formations of Allied bombers with fighter escort soared eastward across the English channel toward undisclosed targets in western Europe. London heard a German radio report that British torpedo boats and Nazi coastal defenses at Lehavre, France, exchanged fire today.

Take Jap Base

The surprise airborne assault was accompanied by heavy aerial pounding of enemy supply lines south of Madang, which were raked by fighter-escorted heavy and medium bombers. Other bombers dumped 97 tons of explosives on two Jap airfields in the Wewak area.

Japanese airmen struck counterblows against Allied positions in New Guinea and the Solomons, but with comparatively small success. Twenty enemy planes were shot down over American-held Vella Lavella in the Solomons and six more were blasted from the sky over the Markham river valley in New Guinea by Allied fighters.

15 POUNDS LIMIT HOLDS GOOD ON SUGAR RATION

Persons wishing extra sugar for canning purposes were informed Wednesday by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office that they cannot obtain any more than 15 pounds of extra sugar through application at the rationing office. Some persons obtained permission to buy extra sugar during the Spring, and many of these same persons are requesting applications the second time. They are being denied.

Under OPA regulations no person is entitled to more than 25 pounds of sugar for canning. Ten pounds of this total are available through use of coupons in War Ration Book 1.

Distribution of sugar for canning was allotted on the basis of a maximum of 25 pounds to the holder of each War Ration Book 1. provided the sugar is used entirely for home canning and preserving purposes and none is diverted to other uses. Five pounds is allowed for making jams, jellies and preserves. The balance should be used for other canning purposes.

Stamps 15 and 16 in Book 1 become valid in May and will remain valid through October 31 for canning sugar. Each is good for purchase of five pounds of sugar. Stamps 13 and 14 are for use in purchasing sugar for general household purposes.

If you have used all of the sugar on Stamps 15 and 16 and also on Stamps 13 and 14 and still need sugar for canning you may apply to the rationing board for an additional amount up to 15 pounds. But this is not quite so simple.

On this application you will be required to show the amount of fruit you have canned. At the rate of one pound of sugar for four quarts of canned fruit, the ten pounds each person obtained from stamps 15 and 16 would provide each person with 40 cans of canned fruit or 80 cans for a family of two.

STARKEY CAR RECOVERED, YOUTH HELD FOR THEFT

The Buick coupe belonging to Gilbert Starkey, North Court street, stolen at midnight Tuesday from its parking place on East Main street, was recovered early Wednesday in Chillicothe by police of that city. The car was not damaged. Chillicothe police informed Patrolman Elmer Merriman.

A youth Chillicothe police said was Charles Boggs of Delaware was arrested with the automobile. Boggs is expected to be returned to Circleville to face auto theft charges.

Starkey and William Oswald, an employee, went to Chillicothe Wednesday to return the automobile.

CORP. FRED A. SMITH ABLE TO QUIT ARMY HOSPITAL

Mrs. E. E. Smith, South Court street, received a War department letter Tuesday informing her that her son, Corporal Fred A. Smith, wounded in fighting on Munda, has recovered sufficiently to be able to leave the southwest Pacific hospital in which he has been a patient several weeks.

Mrs. Smith received a letter several days ago from her son, attached to the 37th Division, in which he told her he was making a good recovery.

Russia under furious onslaughts by the Red army. Soviet capture of Chernigov, marking complete collapse of the German Desna river defenses, increased the Russian menace to Kiev. Although the general has taken his case to the people before, especially concerning his demands for increased numbers of men, aircraft and other war materials, the statement regarding his future status was the sharpest on record.

The announcement was believed dictated in a large part by the recent success against the Japanese at Iwo Jima in which the strategy he described as the key to victory against Nippon overwhelmed the enemy forces.

ASHVILLE

The village council paid all the bills which amounted to $179. The curb and gutter placements on rather an extensive scale which had been in for construction earlier in the season, has been given up because of a lack of someone to do the work. And the street tar coating had to be abandoned because of not being able to get tar. So for the duration all work which requires material will have to be carried over to a later time when it is to be had.

The Ashville-Harrison joint school board was in session at the school office transacting no business except the paying of bills. With the new teachers and custodian becoming "acclimated" to their pupils and work, all is operating smoothly, we are told.

better care of themselves in the air. For instance, one squadron of bombers was attacked by 70 enemy fighters, yet only one bomber was lost.

Secondly, despite heavy anti-aircraft fire our pilots are able to drop their bombs more accurately.

Thirdly, crews are now better able to spot objectives on a battlefield and bomb ahead of our troops, as they did in the Salerno battle, despite the nearness of the German lines.

Real Cooperation

The spokesman said our air forces has worked out a pattern of operations whose success depends on air and naval supremacy and a thoroughly trained army, since the air force is unable to function without an army to capture and hold airfields and without navy and army forces to bring up supplies.

"We are part of a highly-trained working trio of land, navy and air forces whose operations are thoroughly integrated and coordinated as a single unit," he explained.

"In this last battle, we are proud of the fact that we were able to play our part in support of naval and ground operations which were so ably handled. We feel that the teamwork we have established cannot be stopped."

of Salerno and midway between Salerno and Taranto, was captured by units of the British Eighth Army. The city has been repeatedly hammered by Allied warplanes. The American Fifth Army took San Cipriano Picentino, Montecorvino Rovella and Campagna. San Cipriano Picentino is seven miles northeast of Salerno, Montecorvino Rovella lies about five miles northwest of American-held Eboli and Campagna is approximately five miles northeast of Eboli.

Allies Advance

The new Allied advances on the ground were accompanied by continued heavy aerial pounding of roadways and German transport throughout the battle area. Meanwhile American Liberator bombers blasted several German ships in the Nazi-held port of Leghorn, 180 miles northwest of Rome, and hammered the harbor of Bastia on the northeastern coast of Corsica.

The attack on Bastia supported French regulars and Corsica patriots battling in Corsica against German forces who had fled that island from Sardinia. A communiqué from French Gen. Henri Honore Giraud's headquarters said the Nazis had been herded into the eastern part of the island. French troops were reported battling the Germans at Bonifacio and Porto Vecchio, last main southern ports remaining in German hands.

While the Liberators pounded the German escape port at Bastia, French soldiers and partisans pressed on the port from the landward side. Early liberation of Corsica appeared in prospect.

Yugoslav Victory?

A dispatch from Cairo to London reported, without confirmation, that a Yugoslav patriot army had invaded Italian territory to seize and occupy the town of Gorizia in northeastern Italy, less than 20 miles from the Yugoslav border.

In Great Britain, large formations of Allied bombers with fighter escort soared eastward across the English channel toward undisclosed targets in western Europe. London heard a German radio report that British torpedo boats and Nazi coastal defenses at Le Havre, France, exchanged fire today.

In the southwest Pacific, the Allied ground front in New Guinea was extended to a point of 60 miles northwest of captured Lae when airborne jungle troops wrested Kaipit from the Japanese. Kaipit lies 70 miles south of the big enemy base at Madang. Allied seizure of the town outflanks the Jap shipping base at Finschhafen, about 100 miles to the east on the shore of Huon Gulf.

Take Jap Base

The surprise airborne assault was accompanied by heavy aerial pounding of enemy supply lines south of Madang, which were raked by fighter-escorted heavy and medium bombers. Other bombers dumped 97 tons of explosives on two Jap airfields in the Wewak area.

Japanese airmen struck counterblows against Allied positions in New Guinea and the Solomons, but with comparatively small success. Twenty enemy planes were shot down over American-held Vella Lavella in the Solomons and six more were blasted from the sky over the Markham river valley in New Guinea by Allied fighters.

Persons wishing extra sugar for canning purposes were informed Wednesday by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office that they cannot obtain any more than 15 pounds of extra sugar through application at the rationing office. Some persons obtained permission to buy extra sugar during the Spring, and many of these same persons are requesting applications the second time. They are being denied.

Under OFA regulations no person is entitled to more than 25 pounds of sugar for canning. Ten pounds of this total are available through use of coupons in War Ration Book 1.

Distribution of sugar for canning was allotted on the basis of a maximum of 25 pounds to the holder of each War Ration Book 1, provided the sugar is used entirely for home canning and preserving purposes and none is diverted to other uses. Five pounds is allowed for making jams, jellies and preserves. The balance should be used for other canning purposes.

Stamps 15 and 16 in Book 1 became valid in May and will remain valid through October 31 for canning sugar. Each is good for purchase of five pounds of sugar. Stamps 13 and 14 are for use in purchasing sugar for general household purposes.

If you have used all of the sugar on Stamps 15 and 16 and also on Stamps 13 and 14 and still need sugar for canning you may apply to the rationing board for an additional amount up to 15 pounds. But this is not quite so simple.

On this application you will be required to show the amount of fruit you have canned. At the rate of one pound of sugar for four quarts of canned fruit, the ten pounds each person obtained from stamps 15 and 16 would provide each person with 40 cans of canned fruit or 80 cans for a family of two.

STARKEY CAR RECOVERED, YOUTH HELD FOR THEFT

The Buick coupe belonging to Gilbert Starkey, North Court street, stolen at midnight Tuesday from its parking place on East Main street, was recovered early Wednesday in Chillicothe by police of that city. The car was not damaged, Chillicothe police informed Patrolman Elmer Merriman.

A youth Chillicothe police said was Charles Boggs of Delaware was arrested with the automobile. Boggs is expected to be returned to Circleville to face auto theft charges.

Starkey and William Oswald, an employe, went to Chillicothe Wednesday to return the automobile.

CORP. FRED A. SMITH ABLE TO QUIT ARMY HOSPITAL

Mrs. E. E. Smith, South Court street, received a War department letter Tuesday informing her that her son, Corporal Fred A. Smith, wounded in fighting on Munda, has recovered sufficiently to be able to leave the southwest Pacific hospital in which he has been a patient several weeks.

Mrs. Smith received a letter several days ago from her son, attached to the 37th Division, in which he told her he was making a good recovery.

Russia under furious onslaughts by the Red army. Soviet capture of Chernigov, marking complete collapse of the German Dnestr river defenses, increased the Russian menace to Kiev. A dispatch to London said German army administrative offices have been removed from Kiev and that the Germans were preparing to abandon that city and their bastions at Smolensk and Dnepropetrovsk.

Although the general has taken his case to the people before, especially concerning his demands for increased numbers of men, aircraft and other war materials, the statement regarding his future status was the sharpest on record. The announcement was believed dictated in a large part by the recent success against the Japanese at Lae in which the strategy he described as the key to victory against Nippon overwhelmed the enemy forces.

ASHVILLE

The village council paid all the bills which amounted to $179. The curb and gutter placements on rather an extensive scale which had been in for construction earlier in the season, has been given up because of a lack of someone to do the work. And the street tar coating had to be abandoned because of not being able to get tar. So for the duration all work which requires material will have to be carried over to a later time when it is to be had.

The Ashville-Harrison joint school board was in session at the school office transacting no business except the paying of bills. With the new teachers and custodian becoming "acclimated" to their pupils and work, all is operating smoothly, we are told.

Oliver and Mrs. Wagner residing upon the Rader farm near the village, have three of their family in army service. Two sons, Ray and Paul whose exact location is not known. Their daughter, Myra Sue, is serving as a nurse, located somewhere in England. . . . Billy Arnold, Marcy, son of W. E. and the late Mrs. Arnold, is now in army service, being located at present at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. . . . Local Paul Pettibone is soon to be a part of Sam's naval forces having left here Monday for his boot training at Great Lakes school, Chicago.

Arthur Sandlin with his wife and daughter, residents here some 18 years ago, visited here among friends Monday. The Sandlins are residents of Kenova, West Virginia. Told us he had been with the N. & W. for 40 years.

Jesse Barch has sold his farm of 57 acres immediately north of Ashville now occupied by "Doc" Durrett and known as the Brinklinger farm, to James Wickensinger of Circleville. Time of possession to the new owner and the price have not been made known.

Stanley Stout of the Foreman garage, with his family, now occupy the dwelling on Walnut street the former Nolan Murphy residence, the Murphy's removing to Westerville.

The number of drivers' licenses now issued day by day at Brinkler's, are on the up and up grade, each day showing an increase in sales. One week from tomorrow, Thursday, is the last legal day for the use of the present issue of licenses. So now, you've been told about it.

better care of themselves in the air. For instance, one squadron of bombers was attacked by 70 enemy fighters, yet only one bomber was lost.

Secondly, despite heavy anti-aircraft fire our pilots are able to drop their bombs more accurately.

Thirdly, crews are now better able to spot objectives on a battlefield and bomb ahead of our troops, as they did in the Salerno battle, despite the nearness of the German lines.

Real Cooperation

The spokesman said our air forces has worked out a pattern of operations whose success depends on air and naval supremacy and a thoroughly trained army, since the air force is unable to function without an army to capture and hold airfields and without navy and army forces to bring up supplies.

"We are part of a highly-trained working trio of land, navy and air forces whose operations are thoroughly integrated and coordinated as a single unit," he explained.

"In this last battle, we are proud of the fact that we were able to play our part in support of naval and ground operations which were so ably handled. We feel that the teamwork we have established cannot be stopped."

Prevent Waste and Spoilage of Milk

Careful cleaning of utensils and sterilizing of utensils before milking is one of the most effective ways of increasing the keeping qualities of milk since it destroys large numbers of bacteria.

Cooling milk is also important in cool weather in reducing the possibility of waste through souring and to keep bacterial growth at a minimum.

DRAFT BOARD ENDS INVENTORY OF MANPOWER

All Registrants Between

All In 1-A Soon To Get Summons To Appear
For Armed Service

Pickaway county Selective Service board office has completed its inventory of all registrants between ages of 18 and 45, the work being finished before closing time Tuesday afternoon.

The inventory, being conducted by all Selective Service offices throughout the nation on orders of national headquarters, is to provide draft officials a complete picture of its available manpower.

One copy of the inventory was mailed to Selective Service's statistical offices in Philadelphia, another went to the state office and the third is retained here.

Just what use will be made of the inventories has not been told to local draft officials.

With the inventory out of the way, the local board will start preparing its list of men to fill the October draft call, reported to be twice as large as those of the last several months.

The contingent will leave Circleville about the middle of the month.

Notices will be put into the mail during the next few days to men who will fill the call.

No fathers, except those with post-Pearl Harbor children or those who have violated a regulation governing registrants, will be sent to the Army or Navy in October from this county. However, every man who is classified now in 1-A can expect to receive one of the draft offices "Greetings" messages, which gives him the date and the hour he is to report at the courthouse for transportation to the medical examination center.

However, unless congress takes contrary action, Pickaway county fathers will be called in November.

Chillicothe's two boards sent notices Wednesday for the October call, the county board not requiring any fathers but the city board finding it necessary to call up a few.

Motorists from Circleville and Pickaway county who might have been vacationing in Michigan spots in late August may one of these days receive a notice from Office of Price Administration to appear before their rationing board to explain "how come."

OPA said Tuesday that more than 1,300 motorists, mostly Ohioans and many of them from the Columbus OPA district, face possible suspension of gasoline rations as a result of a check by OPA investigators.

Regional and district investigators, checking out-of-town and out-of-state licenses on automobiles traveling distances too great for legitimate ration coupon use, found 1,325 obvious violators.

The check was conducted at such resorts as Charlevoix, Mackinaw City, Petoskey, Sheboygan and other spots on Lake Huron and Lake Michigan.

License number of the cars violating OPA driving orders have been sent to OPA district headquarters having jurisdiction over the motorists with instructions to start suspension proceedings.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON

ference with the leaders of the Big Four farm organizations last week.

Roosevelt said that several statements Hoover had recently criticizing the "mess" the administration has made of the food problem and demanding an over-all food czar, almost provoked him to a public reply.

Such criticisms undermine public morale in wartime, the President told his guests, adding: "No doubt Mr. Hoover is getting a lot of glee out of emphasizing the shortages of meat and other commodities, which we all have to put up with in these times."

The President dwelt on Hoover for some time. He endeavored, while not saying so directly, to get over the point that his Republican predecessor was attempting to make political capital out of the war privations.

Roosevelt was in fighting trim all through the conference. The first thing he told the farm group spokesmen that he was disappointed about the "disunity" in farm ranks over price subsidies. Subsidies, he said, were necessary both to prevent inflation and to boost the production of vital farm crops.

"I'm willing to give and take, Mr. President," said James Patton, president of the National Farmers' Union, "but I won't stop arguing on fundamentals. I want to raise my small voice for about 4,000,000 small farmers who need more than higher prices to keep them alive. They also need greater financial assistance from the government."

"Farm income has reached an all-time high," Patton continued, "but this hasn't helped the little farmer very much. All the profits are going to the big farmer. He can afford to operate on a volume basis in dealing with distributors and processors."

Roosevelt agreed that the government would have to render greater aid to the small farmer.

JUDGE McCURDY HONORED BY STATE ASSOCIATION

Judge Russell McCurdy of Portsmouth, member of the Fourth District Court of Appeals which serves Pickaway county, has been elected secretary of the Ohio Court of Appeals Judges' association. Election took place Tuesday at the association's annual meeting in Columbus.

Judge McCurdy is widely known among members of the Pickaway county bar.

George W. Montgomery of Newark, presiding judge of the Fifth District Court of Appeals, was elected chief justice for 1944 of the Ohio court of appeals. He succeeds William G. Carter of Warren.

Tuberculosis, Health Society Opens Drive For Sustaining Fund

Annual campaign of the Pickaway county Tuberculosis and Health association, usually opened on Thanksgiving Day, is under way now with the goal fixed at $1,750.

Need for support of the campaign was stressed Wednesday by Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, association executive secretary, who pointed out that much work is to be done by the association this year and in the years to follow the war.

Miss Dunlap said Ohio's 26 tuberculosis hospitals are not sufficient to care for the state's tuberculosis patients. "This means, of course, that a certain portion of those afflicted with the disease live with other," she said. Adequate nursing care during and after the disease highly important.

Officers of the association include G. D. McDowell, president; Miss Clara P. Southard, first vice-president; Harold A. Strous, second vice-president; W. T. Ulm, treasurer; Mrs. Harriett Henness, secretary; Miss Dunlap, executive secretary; Carl D. Bennett, representative director, and Tom A. Renick, legislative chairman.

The executive committee is comprised of J. O. Eagleson, Mr. Ralph Head, Mrs. George Crites, Mrs. Paul Cromley and Mrs. William Rush.

Township chairmen include Mrs. Cecil Noecker, Walnut; Mrs. Ralph Head, Pickaway; Mrs. J. H. Dunlap, Sr., Deer Creek; Mrs. Ira Carpenter, Muhlenberg; Mrs. George McGhee, Perry; Mrs. Howard Stevenson, Jackson; Mrs. William

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red blood. A growing person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red blood must be present to build sturdy bodies. SSS Tonic is especially designed to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient — and to promote those STOMACH JUICES which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair. These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite... firm flesh... body energy... mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win
Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. ©S.S.S. Co.

However, every man who is classified now in 1-A can expect to receive one of the draft offices "Greetings" messages, which gives him the date and the hour he is to report at the courthouse for transportation to the medical examination center.

However, unless congress takes contrary action, Pickaway county fathers will be called in November.

Chillicothe's two boards sent notices Wednesday for the October call, the county board not requiring any fathers but the city board finding it necessary to call up a few.

LONG VACATION TRIPS MAY COST GAS COUPONS

Motorists from Circleville and Pickaway county who might have been vacationing in Michigan spots in late August may one of these days receive a notice from Office of Price Administration to appear before their rationing board to explain "how come".

OPA said Tuesday that more than 1,300 motorists, mostly Ohioans and many of them from the Columbus OPA district, face possible suspension of gasoline rations as a result of a check by OPA investigators.

Regional and district investigators, checking out-of-town and out-of-state licenses on automobiles traveling distances too great for legitimate ration coupon use, found 1,325 obvious violators.

The check was conducted at such resorts as Charlevoix, Mackinaw City, Petoskey, Sheboygan and other spots on Lake Huron and Lake Michigan.

License number of the cars violating OPA driving orders have been sent to OPA district headquarters having jurisdiction over the motorists with instructions to start suspension proceedings.

CAREY FUNERAL

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the A. J. Hott funeral home, Commercial Point, for William Carey, 71, who died Monday at his home in Columbus. Mr. Carey was the father of Rex and George Carey of Commercial Point. He is also survived by seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

DEMPSEY PATRICK AIDS IN RESCUE AT NORFOLK

Dempsey Patrick, member of the U. S. Navy stationed at Norfolk, Va., was injured slightly in the explosion and fire which happened there last week. A large toll of lives and injured resulted from the blast, believed to have been caused by explosion of depth charges in transit.

In a letter to relatives, young Patrick said he was blown about 20 feet by the force of the explosion and that he was cut slightly on the face. After receiving emergency treatment Patrick assisted in rescue work.

ference with the leaders of the Big Four farm organizations last week.

Roosevelt said that several statements Hoover made recently criticizing the "mess" the administration has made of the food problem and demanding an over-all food czar, almost provoked him to a public reply.

Such criticisms undermine public morale in wartime, the President told his guests, adding:

"No doubt Mr. Hoover is getting a lot of glee out of emphasizing the shortages of meat and other commodities, which we all have to put up with in these times."

The President dwelt on Hoover for some time. He endeavored, while not saying so directly, to get over the point that his Republican predecessor was attempting to make political capital out of the war privations.

Roosevelt was in fighting trim all through the conference. The first thing he told the farm group spokesmen that he was disappointed about the "disunity" in farm ranks over price subsidies. Subsidies, he said, were necessary both to prevent inflation and to boost the production of vital farm crops.

"I'm willing to give and take," Mr. President, said James Patton, president of the National Farmers' Union, "but I won't stop arguing on fundamentals. I want to raise my small voice for about 4,000,000 small farmers who need more than higher prices to keep them alive. They also need greater financial assistance from the government."

"Farm income has reached an all-time high," Patton continued, "but this hasn't helped the little farmer very much. All the profits are going to the big farmer. He can afford to operate on a volume basis in dealing with distributors and processors."

Roosevelt agreed that the government would have to render greater aid to the small farmer.

JUDGE McCURDY HONORED BY STATE ASSOCIATION

Judge Russell McCurdy of Portsmouth, member of the Fourth District Court of Appeals which serves Pickaway county, has been elected secretary of the Ohio Court of Appeals Judges' association. Election took place Tuesday at the association's annual meeting in Columbus.

Judge McCurdy is widely known among members of the Pickaway county bar.

George W. Montgomery of Newark, presiding judge of the Fifth District Court of Appeals, was elected chief justice for 1944 of the Ohio court of appeals. He succeeds William G. Carter of Warren.

Tuberculosis, Health Society Opens Drive For Sustaining Fund

Annual campaign of the Pickaway county Tuberculosis and Health association, usually opened on Thanksgiving Day, is under way now with the goal fixed at $1,750.

Need for support of the campaign was stressed Wednesday by Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, association executive secretary, who pointed out that much work is to be done by the association this year and in the years to follow the war.

Miss Dunlap said Ohio's 26 tuberculosis hospitals are not sufficient to care for the state's tuberculosis patients. "This means, of course, that a certain portion of those afflicted with the disease live with other," she said. Adequate nursing care during and after the disease highly important.

Officers of the association include G. D. McDowell, president; Miss Clara P. Southward, first vice-president; Harold A. Strous, second vice-president; W. T. Ulm, treasurer; Mrs. Harriett Henness, secretary; Miss Dunlap, executive secretary; Carl D. Bennett, representative director, and Tom A. Renick, legislative chairman.

The executive committee is comprised of J. O. Eagleson, Mrs. Ralph Head, Mrs. George Crites, Mrs. Paul Cromley and Mrs. William Rush.

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red blood.

A growing person who is operating on a 55 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

Such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or food infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies.

SSS Tonic is especially designed to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient, and to promote those STOMACH JUICES which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite... firm flesh... body energy... mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 cent sizes. © S. S. S. Co.

HANDLING SAVINGS

MANY stories have turned up lately about people who put their savings in queer hiding places, and had them lost or stolen.
Sometimes these losses run into many thousands of dollars. In every case they are tragic to the hoarders.

Why do people handle their money so foolishly, not only risking loss but foregoing the interest they would get at a bank, or the profits of wise investment? It seems to be a matter of personal interest and nearness. They like to have the money around where they can see and feel it. Psychologists might argue the question whether that shows a lack of imagination,
or too much imagination.

In any case, the money should not lie around. People should have it stored or invested in some place where it will not only be safe, but will produce more money for them.

One solution is depositing it in a bank
—and all savings banks are safe now.
Another is to invest it in sound securities,
on the advice of some trusted banker. Still another is to buy good real estate, with the guidance of an expert in that line. The easiest and most obvious way right now for the doubtful, is to invest the savings in war bonds. They are as sound as anything in this world, and their purchase helps in winning the war.

GREAT MEN

MUSSOLINI, says that universal authority, Adolf Hitler, is the greatest man
Italy has produced since Julius Caesar.

If this statement deserves more than a smile, it shows Hitler's mental limitations.
Long after the balcony-strutting Mussolini has ceased to be even a footnote in the pages of history, the world will be moved by the majesty of Dante's poetry, and the great Italian artists. And Hitler might well have remembered the great ecclesiastical figures of the Middle Ages.

He probably has heard of them, but dismissed them because their empire is not built on force. While the Nazis have used ideas as a substitute, force is their fundamental weapon and their god. How to a Nazi could Dante or Michaelangelo rank with a plug-ugly?

Hitler says Mussolini is the greatest Italian in 1,500 years. Well, you can judge a man, like a tree, by his fruits. Look at Italy now.

Things might be worse. Liquor and ice cream are fading out, but there's still plenty of tobacco.

Then on the other hand, some men insist that rolling back prices is "agin' nature." Meaning human nature.

Axis Harassed by OWI's
News on War Production

Conquered Peoples' Hopes
Buoyed by Radio Reports

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—The Office of War Information leaves no stone unturned in seeing to it that the story of United States war production grinds the globe—fraying Axis nerves and buoying the hopes of conquered peoples everywhere.

In sharp contrast to the secrecy which shrouds Axis military output, the amazing American record is broadcast week after week in dozens of foreign tongues over the 14 short-wave transmitters in this country, the BBC and Radio Algiers.

WPI's production summaries are reported as carefully to the inhabitants of occupied Europe as they are to United States citizens.

More recently a new note has been injected into the overseas newscasts—a note that reflects the approach of victory and the mounting consideration
being given to post-war plans by statesmen the world over.

OWI wisely recognizes that Europe by now must be thoroughly saturated with an awareness of United States production might.

Hence, a tapering off in bare production figures and a shift to news that has to do with post-war output.

Typical of the overseas broadcasts are the weekly reports of Blake Ozias, aide to WPI Chairman Donald M. Nelson and a former resident of France. Ozias has a fluent command of French and for 26 weeks has driven home to the people of that country the tale of American production.

Ozias has the distinction, incidentally, of being the real-life member of the OWI triumvirate which included the fictitious characters John Durfee, "American columnist," and Wallace Herrick, "United States military analyst." All three participated in OWI overseas reporting.

Ozias' recent news summaries have dealt with the production of agricultural machinery which is destined to help the return of prosperity to the European countries devastated by the Nazis.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

ABOUT FATHER DRAFT

WASHINGTON—A lot of debate over drafting fathers was held behind closed doors. If the public had been let in,
it would have witnessed a hot flareup between Senator Wheeler of Montana and Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff.

McNarney touched off the fireworks
by declaring that Wheeler's bill to postpone the induction of fathers might "prolong the war for a year."

"The time factor is all important in defeating the enemy now, rather than waiting until next year or the year following,"
said Gen. McNarney in caustic tones.

"If you give the enemy time to establish his defense," continued McNarney,
"the cost and time of our operations may be greatly increased and it will mean the drafting of many more fathers in the future. It would be very unfortunate if you pass a bill of restrictive character to control the war effort—to put the hobbles on it."

"That doesn't make sense to me," interrupted Wheeler. He declared that there need be no holdup in increasing the army,
since there were enough deferred single men who could be taken. He added that the army still had about 2,700,000 troops in the U. S. A. to draw on.

"Well, maybe you know more about it than I do," snapped McNarney.

"No, I don't claim to know more than you," shot back Wheeler.

A little later he fired this critical statement at the War department:

"The taking of married men with children is breaking up the American home.
The army manpower question has been mishandled to a point where it has done more to break down the morale of the people back home than almost anything. It ought to be corrected."

LATIN AMERICAN TROOPS

Under Secretary of War Patterson was questioned closely by GOP Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and others on the possibility of recruiting troops in Latin America, chiefly Mexico and Brazil. Brazil probably has the best trained troops south of the Rio Grande, Patterson replied, but he added, "We cannot alter our plans through the hope of getting Mexicans and Brazilians."

South American nations are giving us greater assistance, in the form of raw materials, than during the last war, the under secretary stated.

Practically all discussion of the British and Canadian conscription programs was significantly deleted from the record. But Patterson explained that plans for drafting men in the United States and Great Britain are worked out by the combined chiefs of staff. "We have to take our share," he added.

Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley
of Kentucky injected one chuckle into the proceedings when it was revealed that some men with only one eye or one leg had been drafted for limited service. While McNarney was being questioned about this,
the droll Kentuckian suddenly observed:

"Lord Nelson was blind in one eye and they say that if he had to look at something he didn't want to see he always put the telescope to the blind eye."

DIET AND HEALTH

Germs Cause Trench Mouth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FOR A while it was called "trench mouth" and it may be called acute pyorrhea. Technically it is called Vincent's infection,
after the French bacteriologist who discovered the germs which

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

cause it. It is an inflammation of the gums, especially near the tooth margin and beginning with redness and swelling and a little pus formation; it can go on to local gangrene and considerable tissue loss.

It is caused by two germs which are nearly always found together
—one is a bacillus and one a long, curly spirillum. One of them or a combination of them is a natural gangrene producer and that is where the trouble begins.

When it is said that the condition is due to infection with these germs, the statement leaves out another factor, perhaps two that are really more important than the presence of the germs themselves. Because from everyone's mouth—no matter how clean and healthy—it is possible to culture
some Vincent germs. They are on the surface of the gums or teeth
and do no harm until they penetrate the tissues and this penetration is due to a lowering of bodily resistance, perhaps poor diet. The other possible factor is that you are used to your own Vincent germs, but if you happen to get someone else's in your mouth you are liable to trouble. Lowered bodily tone then and cross infection are the important factors in acquiring the disease.

Increase in Disease

It would be natural in view of these factors to suppose that at the present time there would be an increase in the amount of cases with Vincent's infection. Great numbers of the population are crowded together in war plants,
they are living in cramped quarters, they get what kinds of food they can, they eat off plates and with knives, forks and spoons that are often not adequately cleaned after the last customer was served. Lowered bodily resistance and cross infection are present everywhere,

just as they were in the trenches
when the condition got its name of trench mouth.

If taken early when the gums
are just beginning to be acutely
red and swollen, it can be successfully stopped in four or five days
by an experienced dentist. Later on when destructive changes have occurred, restoration is not so easy.

Rules for Treatment

A dentist connected with a large industrial plant has these rules
for treatment:

1. Observe complete dish, glass and silverware isolation. Boil dishes for three to five minutes in soap and water.
2. Eat and drink only from paper dishes and cups in public restaurants.
3. Throw away toothbrush and do not brush teeth until told to do so.
4. Eat plenty of green leafy vegetables. Force fluids, juices and milk.
5. Use a mild, antiseptic mouth wash every hour.
6. Use a cathartic or an enema
to keep the bowels regular.
7. Make regular visits to dental clinic.
8. Permit no girl with Vincent's infection to handle food or dishes
in the kitchen.

J. E. Y.:—Is taking Epsom salts and lemon every day safe in reducing weight?
Answer: It is safe, but if that is all you do—if you do not keep to a diet—it will not reduce weight.

B. R. C.:—I love raw garlic, but have been told it is not good for me. Is oatmeal harmful if eaten
every morning?

Answer: Garlic is perfectly harmless. Oatmeal is a good, nutritious food and can be eaten
every day with benefit.

M. G. F.:—Is the iron content of beef, pork and lamb liver the same as calves' liver? If so, why the higher price for calves' liver?

Answer: There is very little iron in any kind of liver. You may be thinking of its use in anemia, but the good liver does in anemia is not due to the iron content.

ASK ADAM

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION WATKINS E. WRIGHT

ADAM NORTH, young bachelor who recently converted an old Linville buggy factory into a plant, becomes a "hit-in" stand-by for the town's party sivers.

SUSAN POTTER, whose husband, Bill,
has lately been breaking evening
dates to "negotiate" a real estate deal with

ALICIA CARTER, a wily, flirtatious widow, Adam, unknowingly, is loved by his secretary.

RUTH MOOREHOUSE, who at present is having difficulty dissuading the affections of

JACK VINTON, a mechanic in the plant, Adam, not being aware of Ruth's feelings, is just becoming intrigued with

BRENDA LEIGH, who is now enjoying an extended vacation in Linville, which she left several years ago to launch a journalistic career in New York City.

YESTERDAY: Susan pays an unexpected visit to her husband's office and finds him and Alicia Carter having a rather intimate conversation.
After being told by Bill that he's taking Alicia to lunch, Susan angrily leaves and, feeling in a "what's sauce for the goose" mood, heads for Adam's office.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

A SHORT TIME later Susan was arguing with the man at the gate of Adam North's factory.

"I ain't supposed to let nobody in without a pass," the man said.
"Yes, but I'm Mrs. Potter. I've come to talk to Mr. North about the cafeteria." Susan smiled. "Besides, you know me, John Bugg, so stop being so self-important and let me in."

"I know you all right, Mrs. Potter," said the man, John, "but what happened the other night, I rec-oned—" He caught himself quickly.
"What happened?"

"I ain't supposed to talk. Gotta act just like a clam. Mr. North said so."

"All right, act like a clam," said Susan, "but let me in." She looked up just then and saw Adam North at his office window. "Adam," she called out, "make this man open the gate!"

Adam saw her and threw open
the window. "What's the matter?"
he asked.

"She wants to come in, Mr.
North," said John, "and she ain't got a pass."

Adam laughed. "That's all right,
John," he called down. "Open up."
"Yes, sir," John unfastened a chain, lifted a latch, and the gate swung open. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Potter, but I was acting according to orders."

"I know," said Susan. "It's all right. I'll have a pass the next time."

She hurried on into the office building, and when she entered Adam's outer office she found Ruth Moorehouse was there. Ruth was filling out a pass at Adam's direction, a pass which he presently handed to Susan.

"Hold onto it," Adam said. "And don't be too much surprised if you find yourself being searched each time you come." Then he added somewhat seriously, "Better not carry one of those big bags women are using nowadays. Someone might get suspicious."

"Goodness," said Susan, "you make me feel like a character in a spy drama or something."

"Maybe you are," said Ruth Moorehouse.

One-Minute Test

1. Borneo, Celebes, Java, Sumatra are islands of what group?
2. Where are Balboa and Cristobal?
3. How many southern states areas are covered by the Tennessee Valley Authority?

Hints on Etiquette

It is not necessary for everyone at the wedding ceremony to kiss the bride. Only intimate friends and relatives are correctly considered to have this privilege.

Susan looked from her to Adam and back again.

"What are you two talking about, anyway?"

Before either Adam or Ruth could reply, the telephone bell rang. Ruth lifted the receiver. It was Mrs. Platt calling, she told Adam.

"All right, I'll talk to her,"
Adam said. He took the receiver.
"Hello, Mrs. Platt."

"Adam," the woman said, "I'm calling the first rehearsal for tonight. You'll be here, won't you?
At my house."

"I'll try," Adam said. "I've an awful lot on my mind, but—"

"You must be here," Mrs. Platt cut in. "The first few rehearsals are always the hardest, and I want to get them started. I thought it would be nice to have the play around Thanksgiving time. Hav' you studied your part?"

"Some," said Adam. "I'll have a look at it before I come over tonight."

"Splendid! Eight o'clock sharp."

"Yes'm."

"And do try to stay when you get here," Mrs. Platt added just before hanging up. "The way you rushed off the other night fairly took my breath."

"Yes'm," said Adam.

"You sounded just like one of those Hollywood yes men I've been reading about," said Ruth.

"Then you should stop reading such tripe," said Adam. "What good does it do you to know about Hollywood yes men here at the North Tool factory?" He grinned at Ruth. "Anyway, it's easier being a yes man to Mrs. Platt than crossing her—takes less out of you."

"Could I have a talk with you now, Adam?" Susan wanted to know.

"Sure. Come on into my private office."

"Don't forget there's a meeting down in the machine shop office at eleven," Ruth reminded.

"I won't," said Adam, and disappeared with Susan.

"I came about that cafeteria business we were talking over," Susan said, when they were seated.
"Don't tell me you've forgotten."

"No, I haven't."

"I've definitely made up my mind," Susan went on. "I think I ought to be doing something for my country, and making a success of the cafeteria seems a good thing. I'm ready to start right now."

"But, Susan," Adam said, watching her, "I—that is—I don't know that I ought to let you."

"Let me?" Susan exclaimed.
"You were urging me to a while back."

"I know. But I didn't realize then the real danger you'd be in, and—"
"Danger! Goodness, Adam North,
what danger could I be in if I were down there supervising food?"

Adam hesitated a moment. Then he leaned forward and began to speak very earnestly.

"I don't want it generally known,
Susan, and I trust you to keep it to yourself, but we've received some threats here at the factory.
They may be the workings of a crooked mind, a sort of fanatic, and yet we never know."

"You mean someone might try to—to blow up the factory—something like that?"

Adam nodded. "So maybe we'd better forget all about my idea to have you get the cafeteria to going, and just—"

"We'll do nothing of the sort.
Adam North, you know as well as I do that I come from a long line of scrappers, men and women who were fighters and pioneers—folks who helped to make this part of the country what it is. You certainly can't think I'm going to be scared out of my wits by—by some threats."

"Gosh, Susan," Adam said, "you look wonderful sitting there like that. There's something almost like Joan of Arc about you!"

"Thanks," Susan said, "but this is no time for compliments. I intend to help, and I'm beginning at once." She straightened up. "A lot of folks around here think all I'm fit for is to cook and keep house for—for Bill Potter. Well, I'll show
them!"

"Attagirl!" said Adam. Then he asked, "How soon does Bill expect to have those cottages for mill workers ready for occupancy, the ones he wants to build on Alicia Carter's land?"

"I don't know," said Susan. "But from the way Alicia is dragging the thing out, the war will probably be over before she makes up her mind." She gave Adam a quick look. "Why did you ask?"

"Just because I—"

"That's a woman's reason," said
Susan.

Adam didn't reply at once. He was remembering that threatening
note about evacuating the families of the workers there at the factory. Maybe there was nothing to it, but it would be nice if most of them could move a bit farther away from the factory buildings.

"I asked you a question, Adam," Susan said when Adam kept on being silent.

"Yes, I know you did," Adam said, and forced a smile. "I only wanted to know about the cottages
because things are pretty crowded
in this area—and it's smoky and dirty. It works there at the factory and the women and children could be where it's not quite so—so smelly."

"I see," said Susan. "I'll ask Bill tonight about the matter, if you'd like me to."

"I wish you would," said Adam.

"Very well, and when I start the cafeteria job?"

"I'd rather you forgot that, Susan. We'll just leave things as they are, and let—"

"Adam North, you can't let me down like this," Susan said. "I intend to make the cafeteria one that every war factory in the United States of America will be copying, so you might as well tell me
when to report."

Adam made a helpless gesture.
"Okay, Joan of Linville," he said.
"At ten tomorrow morning."

"Thanks," said Susan. "I'll be here on the dot. But I'll see you before then—at Mrs. Platt's this evening."

"Right," Adam escorted Susan to the door, and then went back to his desk.

Spunky gal, that Susan, he thought. And

HANDLING SAVINGS
MANY stories have turned up lately about people who put their savings in queer hiding places, and had them lost or stolen. Sometimes these losses run into many thousands of dollars. In every case they are tragic to the hoarders.
Why do people handle their money so foolishly, not only risking loss but foregoing the interest they would get at a bank, or the profits of wise investment? It seems to be a matter of personal interest and nearness. They like to have the money around where they can see and feel it. Psychologists might argue the question whether that shows a lack of imagination, or too much imagination.
In any case, the money should not lie around. People should have it stored or invested in some place where it will not only be safe, but will produce more money for them.
One solution is depositing it in a bank—and all savings banks are safe now. Another is to invest it in sound securities, on the advice of some trusted banker. Still another is to buy good real estate, with the guidance of an expert in that line. The easiest and most obvious way right now for the doubtful, is to invest the savings in war bonds. They are as sound as anything in this world, and their purchase helps in winning the war.

GREAT MEN
MUSSOLINI, says that universal authority, Adolf Hitler, is the greatest man Italy has produced since Julius Caesar.
If this statement deserves more than a smile, it shows Hitler's mental limitations. Long after the balcony-strutting Mussolini has ceased to be even a footnote in the pages of history, the world will be moved by the majesty of Dante's poetry, and the great Italian artists. And Hitler might well have remembered the great ecclesiastical figures of the Middle Ages.
He probably has heard of them, but dismissed them because their empire is not built on force. While the Nazis have used ideas as a substitute, force is their fundamental weapon and their god. How to a Nazi could Dante or Michaelangelo rank with a plug-ugly?
Hitler says Mussolini is the greatest Italian in 1,500 years. Well, you can judge a man, like a tree, by his fruits. Look at Italy now.
Things might be worse. Liquor and ice cream are fading out, but there's still plenty of tobacco.
Then on the other hand, some men insist that rolling back prices is "agin' nature." Meaning human nature.

Axis Harassed by OWI's
News on War Production
Conquered Peoples' Hopes
Buoyed by Radio Reports
Special to Central Press
● WASHINGTON—The Office of War Information leaves no stone unturned in seeing to it that the story of United States war production girdles the globe—fraying Axis nerves and buoying the hopes of conquered peoples everywhere.
In sharp contrast to the secrecy which shrouds Axis military output, the amazing American record is broadcast week after week in dozens of foreign tongues over the 14 short-wave transmitters in this country, the BBC and Radio Algiers.
WPI's production summaries are reported as carefully to the inhabitants of occupied Europe as they are to United States citizens.
More recently a new note has been injected into the approach of victory and the mounting consideration being given to post-war plans by statesmen the world over.
OWI wisely recognizes that Europe by now must be thoroughly saturated with an awareness of United States production might.
Hence, a tapering off in bare production figures and a shift to news that has to do with post-war output.
Typical of the overseas broadcasts are the weekly reports of Blake Ozias, aide to WPI Chairman Donald M. Nelson and a former resident of France. Ozias has a fluent command of French and for 26 weeks has driven home to the people of that country the tale of American production.
Ozias has the distinction, incidentally, of being the real-life member of the OWI triumvirate which included the fictional characters John Durfee, "American columnist," and Wallace Herrick, "United States military analyst." All three participated in OWI overseas reporting.
Ozias' recent news summaries have dealt with the production of agricultural machinery which is destined to help the return of prosperity to the European countries devastated by the Nazis.

ABOUT FATHER DRAFT
WASHINGTON—A lot of debate over drafting fathers was held behind closed doors. If the public had been let in, it would have witnessed a hot flareup between Senator Wheeler of Montana and Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff.
McNarney touched off the fireworks by declaring that Wheeler's bill to postpone the induction of fathers might "prolong the war for a year."
"The time factor is all important in defeating the enemy now, rather than waiting until next year or the year following," said Gen. McNarney in caustic tones.
"If you give the enemy time to establish his defense," continued McNarney, "the cost and time of our operations may be greatly increased and it will mean the drafting of many more fathers in the future. It would be very unfortunate if you pass a bill of restrictive character to control the war effort—to put the hobbles on it."
"That doesn't make sense to me," interrupted Wheeler. He declared that there need be no holdup in increasing the army, since there were enough deferred single men who could be taken. He added that the army still had about 2,700,000 troops in the U. S. A. to draw on.
"Well, maybe you know more about it than I do," snapped McNarney.
"No, I don't claim to know more than you," shot back Wheeler.
A little later he fired this critical statement at the War department:
"The taking of married men with children is breaking up the American home. The army manpower question has been mishandled to a point where it has done more to break down the morale of the people back home than almost anything. It ought to be corrected."
LATIN AMERICAN TROOPS
Under Secretary of War Patterson was questioned closely by GOP Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and others on the possibility of recruiting troops in Latin America, chiefly Mexico and Brazil. Brazil probably has the best trained troops south of the Rio Grande, Patterson replied, but he added, "We cannot alter our plans through the hope of getting Mexicans and Brazilians."
South American nations are giving us greater assistance, in the form of raw materials, than during the last war, the under secretary stated.
Practically all discussion of the British and Canadian conscription programs was significantly deleted from the record. But Patterson explained that plans for drafting men in the United States and Great Britain are worked out by the combined chiefs of staff. "We have to take our share," he added.
Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky injected one chuckle into the proceedings when it was revealed that some men with only one eye or one leg had been drafted for limited service. While McNarney was being questioned about this, the droll Kentuckian suddenly observed:
"Lord Nelson was blind in one eye and they say that if he had to look at something he didn't want to see he always put the telescope to the blind eye."

Germ Cause Trench Mouth
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
FOR A while it was called "trench mouth," and it may be called acute pyorrhea. Technically it is called Vincent's infection, after the French bacteriologist who discovered the germs which cause it. It is an inflammation of the gums, especially near the tooth margin and beginning with redness and swelling and a little pus formation; it can go on to local gangrene and considerable tissue loss.
It is caused by two germs which are nearly always found together—one is a bacillus and one a long, curly spirillum. One of them or a combination of them is a natural gangrene producer and that is where the trouble begins.
When it is said that the condition is due to infection with these germs, the statement leaves out another factor, perhaps two that are really more important than the presence of the germs themselves. Because from everyone's mouth—no matter how clean and healthy—it is possible to culture some Vincent germs. They are on the surface of the gums or teeth and do no harm until they penetrate the tissues and this penetration is due to a lowering of bodily resistance, perhaps poor diet. The other possible factor is that you are used to your own Vincent germs, but if you happen to get someone else's in your mouth you are liable to trouble. Lowered bodily tone then and cross infection are the important factors in acquiring the disease.
Rules for Treatment
A dentist connected with a large industrial plant has these rules for treatment:
1. Observe complete diet, glass and silverware isolation. Boil dishes for three to five minutes in soup and water.
2. Eat and drink only from paper dishes and cups in public restaurants.
3. Throw away toothbrush and do not brush teeth until told to do so.
4. Eat plenty of green leafy vegetables. Force fluids, juices and milk.
5. Use a mild, antiseptic mouth wash every hour.
6. Use a cathartic or an enema to keep the bowels regular.
7. Make regular visits to dental clinic.
8. Permit no girl with Vincent's infection to handle food or dishes in the kitchen.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
J. E. Y.:—Is taking Epsom salts and lemon every day safe in reducing weight?
Answer: It is safe, but if that is all you do—if you do not keep to a diet—it will not reduce weight.
B. R. C.:—I love raw garlic, but have been told it is not good for me. Is oatmeal harmful if eaten every morning?
Answer: Garlic is perfectly harmless. Oatmeal is a good, nutritious food and can be eaten every day with benefit.
M. G. F.:—Is the iron content of beef, pork and lamb liver the same as calves' liver? If so, why the higher price for calves' liver?
Answer: There is very little iron in any kind of liver. You may be thinking of its use in anemia, but the good liver does in anemia is not due to the iron content.

SYNOPSIS
ADAM NORTH, young bachelor who recently converted an old Linville busy factory into a war plant, becomes a "fill-in" stand-by for the town's party givers, among them being:
SUSAN POTTER, whose husband, Bill, has lately been breaking evening dates to "negotiate" a real estate deal with ALICIA CARTER, a wily, flirtatious widow, Adam, unknowingly, is loved by her secretary, RUTH MOOREHOUSE, who at present is having difficulty dissuading the affections of JACK VINTON, a mechanic in the plant, Adam, not being aware of Ruth's feelings, is just becoming intrigued with BRENDA LEIGH, who is now enjoying an extended vacation in Linville, which she left several years ago to launch a journalistic career in New York City.
YESTERDAY: Susan pays an unexpected visit to her husband's office and finds him and Alicia Carter having a rather intimate conversation. After being told by Bill that he's taking Alicia to lunch, Susan angrily leaves and, feeling in a "what's sauce for the goose" mood, heads for Adam's office.
CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
A SHORT TIME later Susan was arguing with the man at the gate of Adam North's factory.
"I ain't supposed to let nobody in without a pass," the man said.
"Yes, but I'm Mrs. Potter. I've come to talk to Mr. North about the cafeteria," Susan smiled. "Besides, you know me, John Bugg, so stop being so self-important and let me in."
"I know you all right, Mrs. Potter," said the man, John, "but what happened the other night, I reckon?" He caught himself quickly. "What happened?"
"I ain't supposed to talk. Gotta act just like a clam. Mr. North said so."
"All right, act like a clam," said Susan, "but let me in." She looked up just then and saw Adam North at his office window. "Adam," she called out, "make this man open the gate!"
Adam saw her and threw open the window. "What's the matter?" he asked.
"She wants to come in, Mr. North," said John, "and she ain't got a pass."
Adam laughed. "That's all right, John," he called down. "Open up."
"Yes, sir," John unfastened a chain, lifted a latch, and the gate swung open. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Potter, but I was acting according to orders."
"I know," said Susan. "It's all right. I'll have a pass the next time."
She hurried on into the office building, and when she entered Adam's outer office she found Adam waiting for her. Ruth Moorehouse was there also. She was filling out a pass at Adam's direction, a pass which he presently handed to Susan.
"Hold onto it," Adam said. "And don't be too much surprised if you find yourself being searched each time you come." Then he added somewhat seriously, "Better not carry one of those big bags women are using nowadays. Someone might get suspicious."
"Goodness," said Susan, "you make me feel like a character in a spy drama or something."
"Maybe you are," said Ruth Moorehouse.
Susan looked from her to Adam and back again.
"What are you two talking about, anyway?"
Before either Adam or Ruth could reply, the telephone bell rang. Ruth lifted the receiver. It was Mrs. Platt calling, she told Adam.
"All right, I'll talk to her," Adam said. He took the receiver. "Hello, Mrs. Platt."
"Adam," the woman said, "I'm calling the first rehearsal for tonight. You'll be here, won't you? At my house."
"I'll try," Adam said. "I've an awful lot on my mind, but—"
"You must be here," Mrs. Platt cut in. "The first few rehearsals are always the hardest, and I want to get them started. I thought it would be nice to have the play around Thanksgiving time. Have you studied your part?"

"Right," Adam escorted Susan to the door, and then went back to his desk.
Spunky gal, that Susan, he thought. And then he wondered if Bill Potter really appreciated her.

Revolution Daughters Hear Pioneer Paper

Early History
Outlined By Mrs.
Anderson

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its opening Fall meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. D. Jackson, North Scioto street. Mrs. Helen B. Anderson deeply interested the group with the excellent paper, "My Pioneer Great Grand Mother", written by her sister, Miss Anna Black. The paper had received honorable mention in the Ohioana essay contest: "Who's Who Among Pioneer Women of Ohio."

As an introduction to the essay, a clipping from The Circleville Herald of February 19, 1873, was read: "The eighty-ninth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Susannah Shoemaker was celebrated by a surprise party, on Friday last, at the residence of Samuel Row in Washington township. Upward of fifty persons partook of the feast provided by those in charge of the party, and the occasion was one of much genuine enjoyment. Mrs. Shoemaker is quite active for one of her years, and her mind is well-preserved. She is the fortunate possessor of a comfortable estate and still retains personal supervision of her business."

"She was born in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, on February 14, 1784, and was twice married. Her first husband was Jacob Ziegler, Jr., who with Samuel Watt, his brother-in-law, owned the land on which the city of Circleville now stands. Her second husband was Judge Jacob Shoemaker, a member of the first court of Pickaway county."

The paper continues with the statement that this birthday celebration thus reported in 1873 was the beginning of a series which continued until the death of "Auntie" Shoemaker in 1879. By use of her birthday reminiscences, family traditions, and local records, with such help from historical data as was necessary to make clear her background, her life story was presented in the essay by Miss Black as the story of a typical pioneer woman of Ohio.

As such, it not only covers incidents in the life of her own particular family, but is the history of each woman who made a home in the wilderness out of such things as were at hand, together with the few things brought with her as she accompanied her husband to the public lands in Ohio. In the Spring of 1801 they were put on sale and widely advertised in the eastern states, finding ready buyers.

The paper read by Mrs. Anderson was a record of bravery and an account of hardships such as this generation has rarely encountered in written sequence. One especially interesting fact in connection with this family chronicle, is that the site of Circleville was formerly owned by Jacob Ziegler, Jr., and his wife, Susannah, who came here by flatboat down the Ohio, then by covered wagon up the Scioto valley until they reached the land his father had taken up in 1801. Mrs. Anderson deeply interested the chapter members with the fine record of pioneer life written by her sister.

The display of antiques taken to the session by the speaker included many mentioned in her paper: Bett lamps, Pennsylvania greave lamps, wick lamps, homespun linen thread ready for bleaching and weaving, natural linen thread, samples of bed ticking and the real linen bed sheets used in pioneer times, made of flax grown and spun in this county.

Mrs. Charles H. May, the new regent, greeted the members and the opening of the session was conducted in ritualistic form by Miss Clara Littleton. Mrs. Anderson led the Salute to the Flag.

Mrs. W. L. Mack, recording secretary, reported. Mrs. James P. Moffitt, past regent and member of the board of management, outlined the budget for the coming year. Members were urged to contribute to the blood plasma project of the chapter and to cooperate 100 percent.

Mrs. Clark Hunsicker, chairman of National Defense, read an title by J. Edgar Hoover entitled, "The Betrayed Generation", dealing with youth delinquency as a result of war, the mistakes of past generations and neglect of youth problems.

Members were requested to volunteer assistance in filling Buddy Bags, made by the chapter for gifts to service men. Miss Mary Heffner reminded members to continue saving cancelled stamps. Following the business of the evening, Mrs. Anderson was presented by Mrs. B. R. Bales, chairman of the yearbook committee.

Refreshments were served in the dining room from a table centered with a silver bowl of bright fall flowers. Assisting Mrs. Jackson were Mrs. George E. Roth, Mrs. Eldred A. Cayce, Mrs. C. D. Clonson, Mrs. Donald E. Watt, Mrs. R. R. Bales and Mrs. Paul A. Johnson. About 50 members and guests were present.

The October session of the chapter will be at the home of Mrs. Seymour Miller, near Ashville, with Ashville members as assisting hostesses.

Child Conservation League

Using the topic, "Religion and Contemporary Life", the Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the First Methodist church appeared as guest speaker Tuesday at the opening Winter session of the Child Conservation league at the home of Mrs. Tom Renick, East Main street. His logical presentation of the subject proved deeply interesting and inspirational for the splendid group of members.

Mr. Swearingen spoke of the influence of Religion and the Church on life and events down through the ages. He told how in times of prosperity the influence of the Church has waned but that through periods of depression and trouble its strength has increased. People then seek the comforts of religion and the Church once again becomes a great power of consolation. This is as true now as it was in the past and he expressed the belief that whatever lies ahead for us in the post war world, the Church will play a dominant part.

New officers presiding for the first time included Mrs. John Dunlap Jr., in the chair as president. She received reports of Mrs. Lemuel Weidman, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Hediges, treasurer. Mrs. Luther Bower is serving as vice president this year.

Mrs. Glen Gelb, chairman of the year program committee, spoke briefly in presenting the guest speaker. Others on the 1943-1944 committee are Mrs. Sterling Lamb and Mrs. Richard McAllister. Mrs. Ned Griner is chairman of the 1944-1945 program committee.

During the business hour, the club voted to purchase a one hundred dollar war bond. Plans for the charity work of the club for the year have not been completed.

The next meeting, October 5, will be at the home of Mrs. Luther Bower, Beverly road. Mrs. Bishop Given will be heard in a book review.

Nebraska Grange

Nebraska grangers in regular session Tuesday in the grange hall voted to contribute $5 to the student loan fund and considered 12 applications for membership. Wilbert Reigel, worthy master, conducted the business hour and announced that eight of the applications were secured by Roger Bowers and four by Mr. and Mrs. Archie Peters.

Annual inspection of the grange was conducted by Turney Glick, county deputy, who was accompanied to the session by Mrs. Glick, county juvenile matron. Both spoke at the close of the third degree work presented by the regular officers.

It was announced that there would be a Booster Night program September 30 at 8:30 p. m., fast time, in the Walnut school auditorium. This meeting is to be open to the public. F. K. Blair will speak on "Soil Conservation."

Sara Jane Hedges played "Mazurka" as a piano solo for the first number of the evening's program. Colin Dill held attention of the grangers with his interesting talk on "My Trip to the FFA Camp." Miss Metta Mae Hickman, accompanied at the piano by Miss Dana Poling, sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling"; reading, "A Question for America"; Miss Thelma Plum; reading, "Two Gold Stars"; Mrs. Hugh Solt; vocal quartet selections, "Our Flag" and "School Days"; Miss Plum, Miss Poling, C. D. Bennett and Kenneth Holtry with Miss Hickman at the piano. Refreshments were served to 55 members and several guests.

Freshly-Weds

About 30 members and guests attended the meeting of Freshly-Weds of the Presbyterian church Tuesday at the Pickaway County Home. A short business session was conducted by Vernon Blake after the bountiful supper was served. Plans were made for the October session, the women of the organization to entertain the men at this time.

James Mowery, superintendent of the home, conducted the group on a tour of the store rooms to view the vast quantities of canned and preserved fruits and vegetables and dried produce from the gardens ready for winter use in the institution.

D.U.V.

Members of Daughters of Union Veterans attended an interesting and profitable meeting Tuesday in the Post room, Memorial hall. Mrs. Hattie M. Pickens, senior vice president, was in the chair for the evening.

It was announced that members of the group during last week had planted 25 peony plants on soldiers graves in the cemetery, a continuance of a yearly project. Plans for business and social activities of the group during the coming year were tentatively discussed.

Saltcreek Valley Grange

Forty-five members of Saltcreek Valley grange attended the meeting Tuesday in the Saltcreek school auditorium and balloted on five candidates and one reinstatement. Under Orley Judy, worthy master, plans were made for inspection to be held October 5 at 8 p. m.

Plans were made also for the annual Booster Night meeting to be Thursday, September 30. A Doctor I. Q. program will be presented with awards of war stamps instead of cash. Mr. Blair or a representative from his office will be present.

and talk on "Soil Conservation" and will also show pictures.

The program arranged by Mrs. O. S. Mowery and Mrs. Raymond Hedges opened with a piano solo, "Melody in F", by Mrs. William Defenbaugh; readings, "Travel" and "Ask No Fool Questions", Mrs. Mowery; a quiz; piano solo, "To Spring", Lois Defenbaugh.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Heffner, Mrs. Jeanette Armstrong, Mrs. Guy Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Strous and Mrs. George Jury.

Harper Bible Class

Harper Bible class of the United Brethren church will meet Friday at 6:30 p. m. at the James Pierce farm, Kingston pike, for a wiener roast. Members are asked to take wieners and rolls for the affair, and to meet at the community house to leave for the Pierce home.

Revolution Daughters
Hear Pioneer Paper

Early History
Outlined By Mrs.
Anderson

Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its opening Fall meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. D. Jackson, North Scioto street. Mrs. Helen B. Anderson deeply interested the group with the excellent paper, "My Pioneer Great Grand Mother," written by her sister, Miss Anna Black. The paper had received honorable mention in the Ohioana essay contest: "Who's Who Among Pioneer Women of Ohio."

As an introduction to the essay, a clipping from The Circleville Herald of February 19, 1873, was read: "The eighty-ninth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Susannah Shoemaker was celebrated by a surprise party, on Friday last, at the residence of Samuel Row in Washington township. Upward of fifty persons partook of the feast provided by those in charge of the party, and the occasion was one of much genuine enjoyment. Mrs. Shoemaker is quite active for one of her years, and her mind is well-preserved. She is the fortunate possessor of a comfortable estate and still retains personal supervision of her business."

"She was born in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, on February 14, 1784, and was twice married. Her first husband was Jacob Ziegler, Jr., who with Samuel Watt, his brother-in-law, owned the land on which the city of Circleville now stands. Her second husband was Judge Jacob Shoemaker, a member of the first court of Pickaway county."

The paper continues with the statement that this birthday celebration thus reported in 1873 was the beginning of a series which continued until the death of "Auntie" Shoemaker in 1879. By use of her birthday reminiscences, family traditions, and local records, with such help from historical data as was necessary to make clear her background, her life story was presented in the essay by Miss Black as the story of a typical pioneer woman of Ohio.

As such, it not only covers incidents in the life of her own particular family, but is the history of each woman who made a home in the wilderness out of such things as were at hand, together with the few things brought with her as she accompanied her husband to the public lands in Ohio. In the Spring of 1801 they were put on sale and widely advertised in the eastern states, finding ready buyers.

The paper read by Mrs. Anderson was a record of bravery and an account of hardships such as this generation has rarely encountered in written sequence. One especially interesting fact in connection with this family chronicle, is that the site of Circleville was formerly owned by Jacob Ziegler, Jr., and his wife, Susannah, who came here by flatboat down the Ohio, then by covered wagon up the Scioto valley until they reached the land his father had taken up in 1801. Mrs. Anderson deeply interested the chapter members with the fine record of pioneer life written by her sister.

The display of antiques taken to the session by the speaker included many mentioned in her paper: Bed-lamps, Pennsylvania greave lamps, wick lamps, homespun linen thread ready for bleaching and weaving, natural linen thread, samples of bed ticking and the real linen bed sheets used in pioneer times, made of flax grown and spun in this county.

Mrs. Charles H. May, the new regent, greeted the members and the opening of the session was conducted in ritualistic form by Miss Clara Littleton. Mrs. Anderson led the Salute to the Flag.

Mrs. W. L. Mack, recording secretary, reported. Mrs. James P. Moffitt, past regent and member of the board of management, outlined the budget for the coming year. Members were urged to contribute to the blood plasma project of the chapter and to cooperate 100 percent.

Mrs. Clark Hunsicker, chairman of National Defense, read an ar-

You Women Who Suffer From HOT FLASHES then CHILLY FEELINGS

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, nervous feelings, distress of "irregularities," are blue at times—due to the functional middle age period peculiar to women—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

Taken regularly—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such distress. It also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect! Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Here's a product that HELPS NATURE and that's the kind to buy. Follow label directions. Well worth trying!

CAVALCADE OF AMERICA

Cavalcade of America will use the entire NBC network of 126 stations when it broadcasts "The Hated Hero of 1776" on September 27 from the NBC studios in Hollywood. Basil Rathbone, noted actor of the screen and stage, will star in the leading role.

"The Hated Hero of 1776" will dramatize incidents from the life of the revolutionary patriot whose pen and voice, perhaps more than any other man's, helped to effect American independence. Tom Paine was one of our greatest fighters for liberty and one without honor in his own country.

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

The fifth anniversary of the sinking of the Time Capsule, that massive shell, 7½ feet long, eight inches round, with its contents that range from bobby pins to microfilm—from telephones to newspapers of a Presidential speech—will be celebrated on the John Charles Thomas program Sunday 2:30 p. m. over NBC, when John Nesbitt dramatizes the story of the capsule, its contents, and reveals the secret of how it was constructed to withstand the elements of 75 centuries or more.

The great American baritone will sing "Natchavo" by Manna-Ducca; Victor Young's orchestra will play "The Night was Made for Music"; Thomas' second song will be "Curly Locks" and the Ken Darby Chorus will sing "Covered Wagon" and "Twilight on the Trail." The ensemble number will be "The Lost Chord."

CUGAT PLAYS RUMBA

Xavier Cugat plays "Bim Bam Bum," a rumba which is selling like hot cakes in a new record release, as a musical highlight on his "Your Dubonnet Date," on Saturday at 11 a. m., over WLW. The selection, waxed by Cugat before the ban on recordings, has excited much comment, and volume sales, in its recent release. This will be Cugat's first air performance of "Bim Bam Bum" since the discs have gone on sale. "All the Things You Are" is another selection slated for the Cugat treatment, in this broadcast which also features the singing of Lina Romay and Don Rodney.

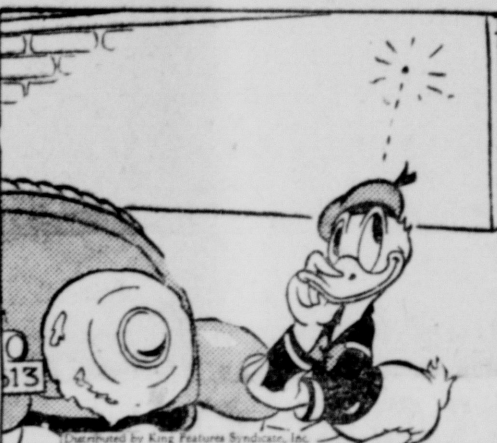

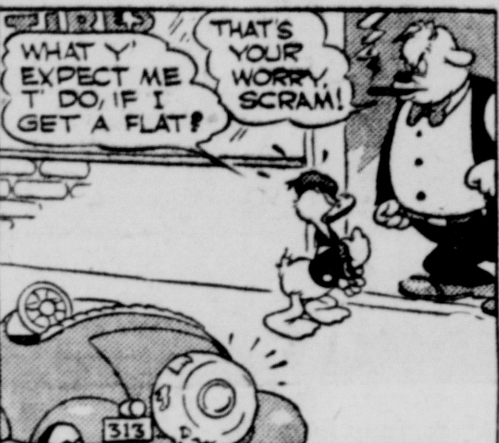

"SALUTE TO YOUTH"

How an Armored Force lieutenant earned the Distinguished Service Cross on the Tunisian battlefield will be dramatized as the "Service Story of the Week," on the "Salute to Youth" broadcast on Tuesday, September 28, at 7:30 p. m., over station WLW. His tank hit and set afire by enemy shellfire, Lieutenant Charles L. Davis ordered his men to safety, while he remained behind to salvage several canteens of water, vitally needed in the desert. Later, he aided in the rescue of several men. Guest star of the week, from the production front, is an engineer who helped produce an unusual pipeline joint to speed the transport of gasoline and oil to the front. Musically, the broadcast features Nadine Conner, Metropolitan Opera soprano, singing "Be Still, My Heart" and "Time Stands Still." Raymond Paige's "Young Americans" orchestra and chorus offer "In My Arms" and "Stormy Weather."

"HOUR OF CHARM"
 Favorite songs from musical shows which have been popular through the years make up the program for Phil Spitalny, his all-girl orchestra, choir and soloists, on the "Hour of Charm" Sunday, September 26, at 10 p. m., over WLW. Selections include "March of the Toys" from Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland," played by the orchestra; "The Man I Love" from George Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band," sung by the contralto Kathleen; "Lady Be Good" from the Gershwin show of the same name, played by the orchestra; "My Heart Stood Still," from Richard Rodgers' score for "The Connecticut Yankee," sung by the all-girl choir; "Ziegner" from Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet," played by Evelyn on her magic violin; "Old Man River," from Jerome Kern's "Show Boat," featuring the two pianists Rosa Linda and Ruth, and "My Hero" from the Oscar Straus operetta "The Chocolate Soldier," sung by the soprano Vivien. The hymn of the evening, "Sun of My Soul," is dedicated to Barksdale Field, La.

ON BUTTERWORTH QUIZ
 Henry Burbig, who was probably radio's first nationally prominent dialect comedian, back in the days of the crystal sets, turns up as featured guest on Wally But-worth's "Take-A-Card" quiz, on Wednesday, September 29, at 8:30 p. m., over WHKC. Burbig, whose fairy tales in dialect were a favorite with early dialers, now is a network production executive. Other contestants, from oddly assorted civilian jobs and from the armed forces, round out this unusual quiz show.

HONOR FOR LEPLA
 John Leppla, featured in the book, "Queen of the Flat-Tops," will be honored Sunday, October 24, when his former employers hold a memorial service for him on the John Charles Thomas program over NBC. Leppla, formerly a factory hand, volunteered for the Navy, became an officer-pilot, then a hero. Now he has been missing in action for a year.

JOE E. MILLER'S OLD GAG

laughing so hard he lost his up-pers came true, literally, at a recent Judy Canova program when Producer Carlton Alsop's butcher, there at the invitation of Alsop, lost his upper plate during a hilarious scene between Judy and Geranium. It's a good thing, too, the teeth were found after the broadcast—because they were wedged between a chair seat and its back—in a biting position!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. Scott

POPEYE

WILL YOU GIVE ME THE SEADUST, POPEYE?

IT ISN'T MINE

It'll cost you an extra $100 Bond to look him in the eye !

HE'S AN AMERICAN SOLDIER.

Some day, if God is with him, he'll come home.

And when he does, you'll get the biggest thrill of your life if you can look him squarely in the eye and say, "I couldn't help you fight—but I did everything in my power to help you win!"

There's only one way you can say that . . . honestly say it. And that is to help him win now . . . when he needs all the help you can give him.

Today's particular job for you is to scrape together every dollar you can—and buy an extra $100 worth of War Bonds! That's your job in the 3rd War Loan!

It's not enough to buy your regular amount of Bonds. It has to be more. It has to be an extra buy—a little more pressure for the shoulder that's against the wheel.

REMEMBER THIS—you aren't giving your money. You're lending it to the government for a while. And you're making the best investment in the world.
